

Honest

Written by Andrea Leonhardi and Robbie Boyd

Sitting next to you, starting to feel true
Letting go of everything that I have held on to Being all of me, there for you to see
Opening my heart again with you I can just be

Now I'm coming back for more
Saying yes to what's in store
Only Love can lead the way
When the lies are stripped away

If you're looking for somebody else to bring you what you want
Then remember you're already everything you're searching for
Just be honest, just be honest

Feel through your hurts; know all that you're worth
Sink into the treasures that are deep within you first
Why the holding back? There's no need to react
Swim with all the fishes in the sea and don't get wet

Now we're coming back for more
Saying yes to what's in store
Only Love can lead the way
Through the movements that we make

If you're looking for somebody else to bring you what you want
Then remember you're already everything you're searching for
Just be honest, just be honest

As the Universe keeps on expanding
There's a stillness we hold in our grandness
I'm connecting to you
You're connected to me
We're all united by our access to Divinity

If you're looking for somebody else to bring you what you want
Then remember you're already everything you're searching for
Just be honest, just be honest
Just be honest, just be honest